National Survey of Student Engagement

The National Survey of Student Engagement (NSSE) assesses the extent to which first-year and senior students engage in educational practices associated with high levels of learning and development. View the detailed 2007 Benchmark Report or a shorter summary of the benchmark report.

In Spring 2005 NSSE's companion survey, the Faculty Survey of Student Engagement (FSSE) was administered to undergraduate faculty at Evergreen. The results of the two surveys provide an opportunity to explore faculty and student perceptions of Evergreen. View the FSSE-NSSE comparison of lower division faculty members' responses to those of first-year students.

The Evergreen State College is one of 20 colleges and universities across the country that were studied as a part of the Documenting Effective Educational Practices \(DEEP\) project. This project combined the results of NSSE survey research with qualitative research into what makes some educational institutions particularly effective. As a result of this research, Evergreen was one of the colleges featured in the book Student Success in College: Creating Conditions that Matter.
